PASTOR'S CORNER

My Dear Family,

In a small part of Greece, there is a peninsula called Mount Athos. On this peninsula, cut off from the rest of Greece except for a narrow bridge of land, there are 2,000 Christian monks living lives of devoted prayer and servile work in isolation from the world. This 1200-year-old monastic community is one of the holiest places on earth, where monks spend their lives closer to God than most of us could ever dream. They share all things in common, and so they have no money and no occasion for greed. There are no women allowed on the peninsula, and so there is no occasion for indecency. They do not speak except when discussing work or the things of God, and so there is no occasion for loose speech. They have no internet or newspaper, and so there is no occasion for distraction.

And yet, every day, for hours on end, the prayer of these men remains the same: “Lord Jesus Christ, have mercy on me, a sinner.” If these monks, who are truly holy, consider themselves sinners, how much more should we consider our own sins? If these men beg for God’s mercy day in and day out, how much more do we need to ask for God’s mercy? Strive to enter by the narrow gate, for the Lord does not tell us how much we must cry out to him. Always outdo yourself in your reliance on God.
